Bedroc begins coming down

(by Jaimie Julia Winters - May 13, 2009)

Demolition began today, May 13, on Bedroc in Lyndhurst . A 374-unit residential development has been proposed for the site by Russo Development. Bedroc was the epicenter of controversy over stone crushing procedures. Although township officials were in favor of Bedroc's closure, reaction to the housing proposal has faced staunch criticism due to its density, proposed use and its current absence of any supporting analysis of how a development that size would impact the township. Meadow Crossing will have to receive approval from the New Jersey Meadowlands Commission (NJMC) however, and not the township of Lyndhurst , as the NJMC oversees the zoning for that area.
